After years of work and planning, the Midwest Rentals site (506 Brown) has been purchased with the combined resources of Centennial Neighbors Investment Group LLC, the Lafayette Redevelopment Commission, and the nonprofit Lafayette Urban Enterprise Association. What can you do to help further the project along? Consider buying one of the homes! If that is not a possibility, talk about the project with everyone you know. These will be beautiful homes that are close to downtown amenities and in a great neighborhood!

Opportunity to Improve Wabash Water Quality

Urban landowners have an opportunity to improve water quality in the Wabash River. If you are a landowner, you may be eligible for assistance of up to 75% of the cost of design and installation of specific green practices. To learn more, visit www.TippEcoNow.com. The Wabash River Enhancement Corporation and partners will evaluate and rank applications with priority given to practices that address local concerns. NOTE: Participation in a consultation does not guarantee project funding.

That partnership continued in September, with eleven trees planted on north Sixth St. (pictured above). Eight more will follow in the Spring, 2012.

Hollyhocks, Trees, and Fun!

This year's June Hollyhock Festival was another rousing success. This year, besides the good music, good food, and fun, Historic Centennial Neighborhood (HCN) partnered with TreeLafayette to plant a new tree to replace the ash trees that were threatened by the emerald ash borer infestation.

Centennial Neighborhood Master Plan in Full Swing

Almost a year ago, a steering committee was formed to assist with the development of neighborhood goals and objectives and provide direction and feedback on design and development framework for future growth and redevelopment. The group is now meeting with Ratio Architects, the consultants hired to assist the Tippecanoe Area Plan Commission, the lead agency for developing the master plan. "We have met twice now and had numerous more e-mail interactions," says Barbara Dixon, one of the neighborhood representatives. Our goal is to plan ahead 15-20 years to increase owner-occupied housing, make plans for where appropriate business and services will be located, analyze park space, and create a document that will help us move forward to make our plans for the neighborhood come true."

Dawgz in the 'Hood

One of the fun things about Centennial Neighborhood is meeting people out walking their dogs. Most people are so conscientious about making sure they clean up after their pets so that everyone else can enjoy the clean streets, too. Our roving photographer caught these people "doing their dooty" this summer:

Michael, a neighborhood resident, with his dog Pugsley.

Freddy with Miles (Miles is on leash)

Buster and Kerry with their dogs.

Althea cleans up after her dog, Sam, on Cincinnati Street.

Darron and Treshawn carefully clean up after Marty.

LUM Names Youth Center for Former Centennial Resident Ray Ewry

You may have noticed a new sign in front of Lafayette Urban Ministry (LUM) on the corner of Fourth and Cincinnati. LUM has chosen to honor Ray Ewry, who lived in Centennial Neighborhood on Fifth Street as he was growing up, by giving its new youth program his name.

Stricken with polio at age seven, Ewry was told by doctors he might never walk again. Instead, his determination led him to work, exercise, and train.

Amazingly, between 1900 and 1908, he went on to win ten individual gold medals in the standing high jump, standing long jump, and standing triple jump – a record number of wins that remains unbeaten.

We are proud of our native son, and happy that LUM has chosen to honor him in this way.

Appreciation is given to the following members for their financial support by joining the Historic Centennial Neighborhood Association. It is their belief in the future of the neighborhood, and the efforts currently underway for neighborhood revitalization that makes them so wonderful!
